

MAINTENANCE AND INSURANCE CHART INFORMATION SHEET

WHY ADOPT A MAINTENANCE AND INSURANCE CHART?

Two common questions for any condo or townhome community are:

- (i) Who is responsible for maintaining a particular component; and
- (ii) Who is responsible for insuring a particular component?

Often these questions arise because the governing documents are ambiguous and confusing. Boards and managers then end up seeking legal opinions on responsibility.

Rather than consulting legal counsel every time a maintenance or insurance question arises, a better approach is to have us prepare a Maintenance and Insurance Chart (“M&I Chart”). The M&I Chart identifies the maintenance and insurance responsibilities of the owners and association over all the various components in the community.

The M&I Chart is a user-friendly tool that allows both boards and owners to easily figure out their responsibilities and budget accordingly. If the Association is responsible for maintaining a component, the chart will state “A” next to the component under the Maintenance Column. If the Owner is responsible for insuring a component, the chart will state “O” next to the component under the Insurance Column. The M&I Chart also makes it easy for insurance carriers to identify the insurance obligations of the owners and association.
